

National Equality Register

C2E founded the National Equality Register to support the goals embedded in the Equality ACT 2010

National Equality Register an Overview

The National Equality Register supports and enables the goals embedded in the Equality ACT to be implemented.

Enables reporting of Equality Information to be transparent

Holds and makes up to date and verified Equality Information available.

Empowers public sector procurement and simplifies the challenges of managing equality for them and their suppliers

Supports a sustainable Equality Framework

Enables individual organisations to take responsibility for their own equality management

Enables Equality Management practices to be made easier

The Register is available Online

Steps to an Organisation's Equality Status

1. All organisations complete a basic registration
2. Those who supplying the public sector would be required to complete the PQQ
3. Then submit evidence of equality policies and practices if they win a Public Tender or Contract
4. Verification of evidence would be required
5. Working towards accreditation
6. Accreditation

Outcomes and Responsibilities

The National Equality Register enables outcomes, trends and change to be measured and reported by public bodies

It also enables suppliers to meet their contractual equality responsibilities

Equality Management

Managing equality is made simple; by allowing each organisation to take responsible for its own equality management (meeting any contractual equality responsibilities by achieving its required equality status)

Equality Framework

Recognise what needs to be managed, what should be managed and what can be managed

Minimise the administrative load and maximise impact on all

Fast, clear and easy to operate

Information to measure progress and change

Sustainable and helps avoid the many pitfalls of equality policing.

Lower cost and less bureaucracy
